Member Information

- An ACMA marine radio base station licence is not required for marine transceivers installed in a vessel
- A Radio Operators Licence is required for MF / HF and VHF Marine Transceivers, 27MHz do not require an operator's licence.
- MR Central Coast offers two Radio Operators Courses leading to a Marine Radio Operator's Licence or a VHF licence.
- MR Central Coast has a 'hands-on' Radio Course, using closed circuit training radio equipment to help a boat owner become familiar with the proper use of marine radios.
- MRSS members receive a 10% discount for most MR Central Coast Marine Education Courses and seminars
- For your safety, your marine radio transceiver should be left on, and a listening watch maintained at all times on the appropriate calling channel eg Channel 88 for 27MHz or Channel 16 for VHF, whenever you are on board your vessel. Radios on listening watch use a minimum of battery power.
- It is mandatory for all recreational boat users to wear a lifejacket when crossing coastal bars and at other times. The channel between Lobster Beach and Broken Bay at Little Box Head is a designated Coastal Bar..
